Property description

The trail leads you through scenic landscapes — from grasslands bursting with wildflowers, to canopies of trees and rolling sand dunes.

As you lace up your shoes and hike the trail at the Nature Conservancy of Canada's (NCC's) Asquith property in central Saskatchewan, you'll want to have your camera handy, as the trail makes for great photo opportunities. Native grasslands and wildflowers abound, and there's a good chance you could see incredible migratory birds flying above or swimming below in the wetlands.

NCC's Asquith conservation area consists of 543 hectares (1,343 acres) of ecologically significant land and water. This area contributes to an important wildlife habitat corridor in the Saskatoon Prairie Natural Area. Thanks to support from the Saskatoon Nature Society, the Asquith property offers a well-marked, mowed trail complete with interpretive signs. The trail is ideal for those keen on a leisurely stroll, with the chance to see the area's striking bird and plant life up close.
